

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies)

By Patricia Arneson

Download now

Read Online →

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies)

By Patricia Arneson

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made recognizes limitations in contemporary understandings that separate history and rhetoric. Drawing together ontological and epistemic perspectives to allow for a fuller appreciation of communication that shapes lived-experience, facets of the two academic disciplines are united in acts of communicative engagement.

Communicative engagement draws from Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka's writings on the human condition; extends the communicative praxis of philosopher Calvin O. Schrag by reuniting theoria-poiesis-praxis, which has been separated across time; expands Ramsey Eric Ramsey's philosophy of liberation that provides ground for vitalizing social liberation; and includes the work of philosophers including Hans-Georg Gadamer, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Michel Foucault as well as philosophers of communication including Lenore Langsdorf, Michael J. Hyde, Corey Anton, and others who guide a recollection of the significance of poiesis in human communication.

Three courageous white women who dedicated their lives to being out-of-place and speaking out-of-turn to advance social liberation for black Americans, altering the way humanity was understood by members of society at large, provide concrete evidence of these philosophical ideas. Myrtilla Miner established one of the first schools for young black women in antebellum Washington, D.C., supporting the students' efforts to become teachers. Mary White Ovington, one of the founding members of the NAACP, dedicated her life to improving material conditions for black Americans, particularly in the areas of housing and employment. Jessie Daniel Ames, in concert with other women, formed The Association of Southern Women to Prevent Lynching (ASWPL). Using their newly acquired right to vote, women pressured local law enforcement officials across the South to actively protect the rights of black men. The contributions of each woman is ongoing in organizations that continue their work.

Our technological culture has become terrifyingly effective in suppressing poíesis as a creative life force. Drawing upon the lived-experiences of three historical figures provides extensive concrete evidence of a philosophy of communicative engagement. These life stories assist readers in recognizing the fundamental manner in which creativity (poíesis) can potentially enable people to obtain liberation from restrictive social circumstances - and inspire them to do likewise.

 Download Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Ju ...pdf

 Read Online Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: ...pdf

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies)

By Patricia Arneson

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made recognizes limitations in contemporary understandings that separate history and rhetoric. Drawing together ontological and epistemic perspectives to allow for a fuller appreciation of communication that shapes lived-experience, facets of the two academic disciplines are united in acts of communicative engagement.

Communicative engagement draws from Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka's writings on the human condition; extends the communicative praxis of philosopher Calvin O. Schrag by reuniting theoria-poiesis-praxis, which has been separated across time; expands Ramsey Eric Ramsey's philosophy of liberation that provides ground for vitalizing social liberation; and includes the work of philosophers including Hans-Georg Gadamer, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Michel Foucault as well as philosophers of communication including Lenore Langsdorf, Michael J. Hyde, Corey Anton, and others who guide a recollection of the significance of poiesis in human communication.

Three courageous white women who dedicated their lives to being out-of-place and speaking out-of-turn to advance social liberation for black Americans, altering the way humanity was understood by members of society at large, provide concrete evidence of these philosophical ideas. Myrtilla Miner established one of the first schools for young black women in antebellum Washington, D.C., supporting the students' efforts to become teachers. Mary White Ovington, one of the founding members of the NAACP, dedicated her life to improving material conditions for black Americans, particularly in the areas of housing and employment. Jessie Daniel Ames, in concert with other women, formed The Association of Southern Women to Prevent Lynching (ASWPL). Using their newly acquired right to vote, women pressured local law enforcement officials across the South to actively protect the rights of black men. The contributions of each woman is ongoing in organizations that continue their work.

Our technological culture has become terrifyingly effective in suppressing poiesis as a creative life force. Drawing upon the lived-experiences of three historical figures provides extensive concrete evidence of a philosophy of communicative engagement. These life stories assist readers in recognizing the fundamental manner in which creativity (poiesis) can potentially enable people to obtain liberation from restrictive social circumstances - and inspire them to do likewise.

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson Bibliography

- Rank: #470615 in Books
- Published on: 2013-11-29
- Original language: English

- Number of items: 1
- Dimensions: 9.26" h x .86" w x 6.30" l, .0 pounds
- Binding: Hardcover
- 232 pages

 Download Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Ju ...pdf

 Read Online Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: ...pdf

Download and Read Free Online Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson

Editorial Review

Review

"Pat Arneson is gifted with an exceptionally keen analytic eye and a creative mind. These talents are obvious as she eloquently integrates teachings in philosophy, communication ethics, and rhetorical theory to explore with the help of marvelous case studies the social injustice of racism." (Michael J. Hyde, University Distinguished Professor of Communication Ethics, Wake Forest University)

"There is always more to be said and sometimes it gets said by saying things otherwise. We mistakenly think we know enough until someone such as Dr. Arneson puts it otherwise from a fresh perspective. By making use of a thoughtful philosophy of communication things as yet hidden from our thinking about liberation, ethics, and the history of American feminism are here brought to light. This is no small feat as it requires erudition in both philosophy and rhetorical/historical study to say such things. We have here in Dr. Arneson's courageous work a significant contribution to our thinking in all these many ways." (Ramsey Eric Ramsey, Associate Dean, Barrett The Honors College, Arizona State University and Co-editor of the Philosophy/Communication book series)

"Pat Arneson's telling of how teacher Myrtilla Miner, social worker Mary White Ovington, and political activist Jessie Daniel Ames worked against economic, legal, and social injustice portrays a rhetorical history beginning in the United States during the mid-1980s. By placing our current communicative engagement into juxtaposition with that of Miner, Ovington, and Ames, Arneson reveals the tensions between imaginative creativity that actualizes possibilities for changing sociopolitical norms, and entrenched ways of thinking that suppress democracy's potential for sociopolitical liberation." (Lenore Langsdorf, Professor Emerita, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale)

"In her carefully crafted book Professor Arneson furrows new conceptual territory on the entwining of communication, social liberation, and the quest for justice in civil society. The philosophical backdrop of her stimulating discussion is a retrieval and reinterpretation of the processes at work on the interconnected landscapes of the ancient Greek triad of theoria/praxis/poiesis. That which makes her work especially important for interdisciplinary research in philosophy and communication studies is her demonstration of how the philosophical issues at stake in her project are exhibited in the case studies of three American women who devoted their lives to the advancement of liberation from a variety of social injustices. She deftly supplements her philosophical analysis and argumentation with dialogues and encounters that arise within the economies of everyday lived experiences." (Calvin O. Schrag, George Ade Distinguished Professor of Philosophy, Emeritus, Purdue University)

"In this important book, Pat Arneson reminds us that some citizens have always imagined a fuller, fairer America and have had the courage to work to realize that vision. Arneson's careful research and compelling storytelling bring to life the (his)stories of three remarkable women whose work for racial justice in America has heretofore been too little noticed. Arneson provides compelling accounts of Myrtilla Miner, Mary White Ovington, and Jessie Daniel Ames, three courageous white women who dared to step out of their assigned place in order to fight against racial injustices that prevailed in America. Arneson persuasively shows that the issues of racial injustice that these three women resisted are not confined to history, but persist in our era as we continue to struggle to create a more perfect union. Arneson offers communicative engagement as a transformative means by which individuals can move themselves and others out of injustices that mark a particular time and place." (Julia T. Wood, Lineberger Distinguished Professor of Humanities, Emerita, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill)

About the Author

Pat Arneson is associate professor of communication and rhetorical studies at Duquesne University.

Users Review

From reader reviews:

Theresa Diaz:

Why don't make it to become your habit? Right now, try to ready your time to do the important work, like looking for your favorite book and reading a e-book. Beside you can solve your condition; you can add your knowledge by the e-book entitled Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies). Try to make the book Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) as your close friend. It means that it can to be your friend when you feel alone and beside associated with course make you smarter than in the past. Yeah, it is very fortunated for you. The book makes you far more confidence because you can know anything by the book. So , we need to make new experience along with knowledge with this book.

James Drennan:

The experience that you get from Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) will be the more deep you digging the information that hide in the words the more you get serious about reading it. It doesn't mean that this book is hard to recognise but Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) giving you excitement feeling of reading. The article author conveys their point in particular way that can be understood by anyone who read it because the author of this publication is well-known enough. This specific book also makes your personal vocabulary increase well. That makes it easy to understand then can go together with you, both in printed or e-book style are available. We advise you for having this kind of Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) instantly.

Colleen Greenwood:

Hey guys, do you wants to finds a new book to see? May be the book with the name Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) suitable to you? Typically the book was written by renowned writer in this era. Often the book untitled Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies)is the one of several books that will everyone read now. This particular book was inspired many people in the world. When you read this guide you will enter the new dimensions that you ever know ahead of. The author explained their thought in the simple way, so all of people can easily to be aware of the core of this e-book. This book will give you a lot of information about this world now. In order to see the represented of the world with this book.

Kenneth Cunningham:

This Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) is brand-new way for you who has intense curiosity to look for some information mainly because it relief your hunger of knowledge. Getting deeper you upon it getting knowledge more you know or you who still having little digest in reading this Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) can be the light food for you because the information inside this specific book is easy to get simply by anyone. These books produce itself in the form and that is reachable by anyone, sure I mean in the e-book form. People who think that in e-book form make them feel drowsy even dizzy this publication is the answer. So there is absolutely no in reading a book especially this one. You can find actually looking for. It should be here for anyone. So , don't miss the idea! Just read this e-book style for your better life and also knowledge.

Download and Read Online Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson #3FHIAOWBERN

Read Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson for online ebook

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson Free PDF d0wnl0ad, audio books, books to read, good books to read, cheap books, good books, online books, books online, book reviews epub, read books online, books to read online, online library, greatbooks to read, PDF best books to read, top books to read Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson books to read online.

Online Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson ebook PDF download

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson Doc

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson Mobipocket

Communicative Engagement and Social Liberation: Justice Will Be Made (The Fairleigh Dickinson University Press Series in Communication Studies) By Patricia Arneson EPub