Imperial Lugers By Jan C. Still

Covered in detail are the Army and Navy Lugers of Imperial Germany, their holsters, magazines, loading tools, cleaning rods and literature. For the first time these accessories are related to the Luger variations with which they were originally issued. Unit marked Lugers issued to infantry, riflemen, machine gun crews, cavalry, combat engineers, artillery crews, air ships, railway crews, munitions columns, Army staff, Kaiser's Headquarters, ambulance units and the III Seebattalion are described with photographs and related World War I battle scenes. Also covered are Lugers used by Germany's ally, Bulgaria, and the Lugers tested by the U.S. Army that influenced the Luger design adopted by the Germany Army in 1908. Over 55 Luger variations are described with 460 photos and battle scenes. Replaces all previous references on DWM and Erfurt Lugers.

Editorial Review

Review

An old proverb says that books are a man's best friend. This is even more true when the book is written by Jan C. Still. This author has accustomed us to perfection with his previous books, and this one is just as meritorious.

From the beginning there is a team working together with members of the NAPCA, but it needed a commander to analyse, choose, compile and select the hodgepodge of documents and photos, guns and accessories, etc., which he received from all over the world. With an agreeable but precise rhythm he has built up this book, chapter after chapter, respecting the historical facts. Jan C. Still is one of these great authors bestowed with an enchanting style of writing clearly, precisely, and concisely. -- From the Publisher

About the Author

Jan C. Still has collected and researched German pistols for the last 30 years. He is the world's authority on German pistols from World War I and World War II. He has researched the guns' history, markings, manufacture and use in battle and over the years has collected many historic photos and pictures. He has photographed some of the most important gun collections in the country. As a member of NAPCA (National Automatic Pistol Collectors' Association) he continues to be involved in dialog with the pistol collecting community.
